PRINCIPAL ARCHITECT

ABOUT

---

Billy Kimmons is a registered architect and project designer. He has extensive experience with the design of educational and ecclesiastical buildings. Billy currently serves as a Principal Architect and partner at Hood-Rich.

Before his employment with Hood-Rich Architecture, Billy worked for other architectural firms in Springfield, Missouri and Albuquerque, New Mexico and owned his own practice for nearly 5 years. During that time, Billy developed an intimate passion and expertise for the design of church facilities. He works well with church committees to help them build a consensus towards designing spaces and facilities that will serve as an effective tool for their ministry.

Most recently, Billy has developed an interest and experience in municipal projects including master planning two projects for the city of Springfield. Combined with his other project experience, Billy's wide range of design makes him a valuable addition to any project team.

Billy truly enjoys working with people. He is an excellent group facilitator, communicates effectively, and listens carefully to better understand his client's goals. Billy always designs with the end user in mind. His experience, skill, and passion make him a valued member of our Hood-Rich team.
