ABOUT

Larry Parke is a registered architect and serves as a principal and partner at Hood Rich. Having graduated from Kansas State University in 1992, Larry brings over 25 years of architectural experience to Hood-Rich. As a result, Larry has worked on a wide range of projects including educational, worship, office, residential, long term care with an emphasis on hospitality design. Larry's hospitality design experience includes full and select service hotels and both new build and complete renovation projects. Additional experience includes evaluating existing building for code and accessibility compliance.

More recently Larry's focus has been on client retention and satisfaction having strengthened ongoing relationships with clients for several years.

Larry still keeps his hand in project management, by completing the design of projects and executing the completion of contract documents. He communicates daily with owners, developers and contractors and works closely with our consultants to develop strategies for the building structural and MEP systems. He is responsible for highly detailed, complete and coordinated construction documents. Additionally, Larry's responsibilities include building code review and development of architectural, technical, material, and methods detailing both graphically and via specifications and leads the development of our building information modeling software, Graphisoft Archicad.

Larry has prepared documents and provided construction administration for projects of varying scope and complexity ranging to a few hundred thousand to over 70 million dollars of project cost. His attention to detail and management skills are a valuable resource.
