ABOUT

Nick graduated from Drury University with a Masters of Architecture. He has worked on projects of various types and scopes which has placed him in numerous leadership roles. These roles have included; presenting and leading client meetings and helping solve situations that arose during construction. His duties also included; schematic design, construction documents, code research, material research, bidding and construction administration duties. Nick is also highly skilled in drawing and visualization. His ability to quickly illustrate ideas has not only given him a strong voice as a designer, but more importantly as a voice for the team and project.
